CHURCH SEX REPORT TO BE DISCUSSED IN PRIVATE

BIRMINGHAM RECTOR'S OBJECTION

"We Are Not a Kindergarten: Other People Are Not Squeamish"

—Canon Guy Rogers

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

RESOLUTIONS on marriage and sex which were passed at the Lambeth Conference in 1930 were the subject of a report of a committee of the Lower House, which was presented to the Lower House in Convocation of Canterbury yesterday. The report (published this week in the "Birmingham Gazette") dealt with the indissolubility of marriage, divorce and remarriage, and birth-control.

When a resolution was moved that the discussion be in camera Canon Guy Rogers, of Birmingham, opposed, and said he wanted the House to think of the effect if the discussions were in private.

"It would," he added, "be argued by those who take the opposite side that we have to take the risk of saying a good many things which one would prefer not to say in public, but we are not a kindergarten, and we cannot expect, I think, to say anything that people are not accustomed to see stated in the public Press.

"If we imagine other people are squeamish about these things we make a very great mistake; and on the whole I think we would be well advised to take our discussions in public."

It was decided by 46 votes to 33 to hold the discussion in private, and it was stated that an official communication would be issued to the Press.

TAKING COMMUNION

No Obligation to Fast First

—Bishop of Worcester

"A SHORT time ago," writes the Bishop of Worcester in his diocesan magazine, "one of our incumbents arranged for a celebration of Holy Communion for the Mothers' Meeting in the parish at a time when they best can come together—in the afternoon.

"To this objection has been taken on the ground that thereby he was breaking the custom of the Church Catholic, presumably because it would hardly be possible for them to make their Communion fasting.

INDISPUTABLE

"I want to claim for any incumbent who wishes to do the same, absolute freedom to arrange for celebrations at the Holy Communion at any time which suits the convenience of his people best.

"Our Church has nowhere laid down the rule of fasting before Communion as of obligation, nor indeed could it do so and remain true to its great Reformation principle of looking to Holy Scripture as its standard authority.

"That our Lord instituted the Sacrament of Holy Communion after supper is indisputable; that His whole teaching to the things that defile a man runs directly counter to such a materialistic method of preparation for a spiritual blessing is equally indisputable.

WRONG INTERPRETATION

"I am fully aware that for centuries it has been a 'Catholic custom' . . . but it rests upon a corrupt following of St. Augustine and an incorrect interpretation of the word used for fasting.

"To put it quite briefly, the word 'jejunium' does not necessarily imply complete abstinence from food, but rather the opposite of repletion, and the very letter of St. Augustine which is so often quoted as the basis of the rule or as evidence that the rule is early actually allows Communion to receive the Communion in the afternoon after a light meal.

"It may be helpful to many to receive fasting, but it is neither scriptural, nor, strictly speaking, to the present form even an ancient Catholic custom.

MATTER OF DISCRETION

"Our Church has nowhere laid it down as of obligation and it must be left entirely to the discretion of the individual to judge what is the best method of preparing the heart for the sacred service.

"I desire to say emphatically that I am anxious to see the Holy Communion made more readily available to the great numbers of our people who cannot attend church in the early morning or only with the greatest difficulty."

CHURCH COURT REPORTS

Former Birmingham Clergyman's Resolution

When the summer session of the Church Assembly takes place on 14 June and the three following days the following resolution will be moved:—

That a committee be appointed to consider what legal changes, if any, are desirable in connection with the publicity given to cases affecting morality heard in the ecclesiastical courts and to report as to the best means of securing such changes in the law as may be desirable.

The Rev. H. Gathorne Crabtree, of St. Albans (a former curate at Aston, Birmingham, and later Vicar of Stone) will move

That a committee be appointed to prepare and introduce forthwith a measure providing the most restrictions on the reporting in the public Press of cases tried in Consistory Courts as are now observed in divorce cases.

The Bishop of Worcester has tabled a motion welcoming the report of the recent Royal Commission on Licensing and hoping that the Government will at the earliest opportunity promote legislative action on the lines indicated in the report.

BIRMINGHAM FARM FIRE

A stack of hay was completely destroyed and a cart shed slightly damaged last night as a result of a fire at the premises of Mr. Frank Cattell, a farmer, of Chester-road, Erdington, Birmingham. Aston and Erdington firemen extinguished the blaze.

OBEDIENCE OATH

Dr. Barnes' Objection to Inquiry

What occupations would go best with priesthood?
Can a man working six days of the week as a butcher find sufficient time to practise for qualification as a lay priest on Sunday?

WHEN the Upper House in Convocation of Canterbury yesterday discussed these problems the Bishop of Portsmouth told the story of a bookmaker who was a member of a church choir and also a sidesman.

The Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. E. W. Barnes) said he thought they all agreed that the work of the Church could not at the present time be carried on satisfactorily without the aid of the lay ministry.

A resolution moved by the Bishop of Salisbury that pending a full inquiry into the extent of the authority of the canons a joint committee be appointed to consider the meaning and obligations of the Oath of Canonical Obedience was carried.

DR. BARNES DISSENTS

The Bishop of Birmingham: While sympathising with the motives of those who brought forward this motion in the Lower House I suggest they are inviting us to interpret what is not merely a matter of ecclesiastical law but also of the statute law of the realm. Any such interpretation belongs rightly to the courts of the realm and in particular to the High Court.

I should have thought the matter might possibly come under the consideration of the Commission now sitting on Church and State.

No matter could be more important to the general order of the Church nor more difficult in the details of its working out.

The Bishop of Lincoln said that so far as an inquiry into the exact scope of the Oath of Canonical Obedience as affecting a man's conscience was concerned that was not a matter for inquiry by a committee at all. Every honest man knew what his words meant. No doubt if they could secure a revision of the canon law it would make the working of their Church life much easier.

The resolution was carried, the Bishop of Birmingham being the only dissentient. The Primate afterwards announced the appointment of the Bishops of Truro, Oxford, Bristol, Derby and Coventry to serve on the committee.

MOTORISTS v. PEDESTRIANS

Drastic Measure Approved in the House of Lords

By Our Parliamentary Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Thursday.

Lord Danesfort in the Lords submitted a drastic measure to enable the pedestrian to secure compensation without proving negligence on the part of the owner or driver of a motor-car.

He declared that the position on the roads was intolerable. Eighteen were injured and five killed daily. It was very difficult to prove negligence, and people took whatever the insurance companies offered.

The Lord Chancellor, supporting the second reading, said that the Bill should have further consideration, admitted that it would involve substantial increase of premiums and would perhaps create unscrupulous claims; still, there was precedent for what seemed a revolutionary change.

Lord Burton said that it was always the motorist who was the aggressor and stupidity on the part of the pedestrian hardly merited death or disablement.

Earl Howe, formerly well known as Viscount Curzon, and famed for speeding, said that the way to save lives was not to pass this Bill. It would encourage the pedestrian to sally forth free of all responsibility. The recklessness displayed by many was appalling.

The second reading was eventually carried by 22 to eight. M.T.L.

Messrs. Gallaher, Ltd., tobacco manufacturers, state that their business is in no way affected by the closing down of Gallaher (Dublin), Ltd., which is a small subsidiary of the parent company.

MR. "G" NOT TO BE CALLED

Announcement in Stiffkey Case

DROPPED CHARGES

It is anticipated that the hearing of the charges of immorality against the Rector of Stiffkey, the Rev. H. F. Davidson, will conclude to-day.

Mr. E. F. Levy, counsel for the defence, announced yesterday that he did not propose to call Mr. "G," whose name had been mentioned as having financial relations with Mr. Davidson.

Mr. Levy said he considered that there was really nothing vital or relevant about Mr. "G's" evidence.

From what he (counsel) had heard Mr. "G" was not a man he would like to put up as a witness of credit.

The Chancellor said that he would give Mr. Levy leave to call Mr. "G" later if necessary.

Mr. Oliver (for the Bishop of Norwich) agreed that the charges relating to Miss Williams, Miss Violet Lowe, two unknown persons in the vestibules of three London hotels, two persons in an underground station, and one at the Elephant and Castle station, should be dropped.

Mr. Levy said withdrawal was not sufficient. He would invite the Chancellor to give a formal acquittal in each case.

Later, evidence of Nellie Churchill, who is a patient in a mental home at Ewell, was taken in private in Mr. W. Monckton's chambers.

SPEECH FOR DEFENCE

In his final speech, Mr. Levy said:—"First we must examine the character of Mr. Davidson. He is no every-day ordinary man. Not even Mr. Oliver will dispute that he is very unusual and eccentric.

"You have seen that he is a man completely and utterly indifferent to the way other people judge his behaviour. He has been engaged on work upon which he has set his heart, which has involved conduct in which most people would not be involved, and he does not realise that his conduct has left him open to misunderstanding and misrepresentation on the part of those people he meets."

NARROW-MINDED BIGOTRY

Mr. Levy urged that the case should not be judged in a spirit of narrow-minded bigotry. To judge it, sympathy, tolerance and a rigid determination to avoid prejudice at any cost were required.

The morality of Mr. Davidson, counsel submitted, had been proved beyond all doubt. During many years he had helped hundreds of poor down-and-out girls and girls of a certain type.

Counsel for the prosecution jeered at the suggestion that Mr. Davidson was engaged in rescue and preventive work, and rather suggested that that work was a blind to cover his nefarious associations with loose and indecent women.

"That is the spirit of misunderstanding that has caused all the trouble," said Mr. Levy.

BIBLE AND KISSING

With regard to the kissing by the Rector, counsel said: "Time after time in the New Testament kissing has been enjoined upon the Church and enjoined upon those regarded as holy by the Church.

"Greet him with a Holy kiss," are words that have been used. A kiss was regarded by those who laid down our standards of morality not as a thing foul, indecent, or vicious, but as a thing beautiful and to be encouraged as a sign of holiness and friendship."

Mr. Levy dealt at length with the evidence concerning Rose Ellis, and had not concluded his address when the court adjourned until to-day.

STRATFORD PLAYERS

The Prince of Wales Theatre, Birmingham, where the Birmingham Shakespeare Festival—in two weeks and stupidity on the part of the pedestrian hardly merits death or disablement.—is in progress, was packed from pit to gallery at a matinee yesterday, when "Julius Cæsar," with Randle Ayrton leading the cast, was performed before an audience composed largely of school children.

Last night the Festival Company gave a fine performance of "As You Like It," another of their big successes in their recent opening season at the New Shakespeare Memorial Theatre.

To-night they are doing "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"You See It Everywhere."
The Evening Dispatch.

PARADE OF HOUNDS

Warwickshire Show Attractions

NOVEL DISPLAYS

Attendance of Ten Thousand

YESTERDAY'S sunshine brought a crowd numbering about 10,000 to Sutton Park on the occasion of the second day of the Warwickshire Agricultural Show.

The proceedings were of considerable interest to the general public, for included were parades of hunters, shire horses, and various displays, including two by the Weedon Army Equitation School.

There was also a parade of the South Staffordshire Foxhounds, accompanied by the huntsmen and whippers-in.

The Lonsdale Allen Cup for the best heavy horse turnout was won by Mr. W. A. Tipping's beautiful bay, Clansman, and the Ansell cup for the corresponding winner in the light section was won by Mr. W. F. Redfern, of Tamworth.

Mrs. H. Mander, of Wolverhampton, gained the Sadler Challenge Cup for the best hunter breeder, and the Parkes Challenge Bowl, given by Miss Parkes, of Quinton, for the smartest hack, was won by the donor.

DUAL HONOUR

Mr. H. Beck, of Four Oaks, achieved a dual distinction by winning the cup presented by Mr. H. H. Coldwell Horsfall (president of the Sutton Horse Show Society) for the best hunter in the local section, and the Newdegate Cup for the best local hunter filly.

In the Hacks and Ponies Section, the class devoted to the most suitable riding pony for children attracted a good entry, and Miss Mercy Cockburn's chestnut gelding Peter was adjudged the winner, with Master A. M. Tatlow second and Miss Stella Pierce's chestnut Vanity third.

Master Tatlow's Puzzle, a fine brown gelding, was the winner for the best riding pony in the section open to exhibitors residing within a 15-mile radius of Sutton Town Hall. Miss Stella Pierce won second prize and Mr. Wilmot Bennett third.

OTHER PRIZEWINNERS

Mr. W. F. Redfern entered the best single light horse turn-out, and Mr. W. A. Tipping the best heavy, while Mr. J. Taylor, of Warrington, exhibited the best tenor in the open section.

Mr. F. J. Whitlock's Penrith showed the best cow in-calf; Mr. R. Tustain, of Great Tew Oxon, won second place, and carried off the premier award for the best cow in the local section with his roan, Wykham Sheila. Local entries were well up to standard.

GOAT WINNERS

In the goat classes, Mrs. R. K. Morcom, a prominent winner, won the first prize in the milking competition with her roan and white Cornish Maiden, with Miss E. M. Gresley Hall's Webb Diana second. Miss Gresley Hall won the Pytchley Perpetual Challenge Cup for the best female goat.

Great interest, as usual, centred in the jumping classes, Mr. F. Adcock, of Thurmaston, Leicester, and Mr. F. W. Foster, of Derby, being the two chief prizewinners.

WORCESTER FRAUD

Frederick Howard Goodman, stone sawyer, of 67, Chestnut-street, Worcester, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment at Worcester yesterday for an ingenious fraud.

It was stated that he represented to three different persons that he was the owner of a house, accepted them as tenants, and received money from them as rent in advance. Altogether he received £7.

He was also charged with selling a bicycle value £4 15s. obtained on the hire purchase system. He sold the machine for £2 after paying an instalment of 2s. 6d.

Sergeant C. C. Willett, of Eastchurch, at the Royal Air Force meeting, at Bisley yesterday, won the rifle championship, the revolver championship, and the pistol-shooting championship.

CONVERTED TO THE COAL QUOTA

Lord Ednam's Admission

By Our Parliamentary Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Thursday.

An amendment to the Coal Mines Bill to leave out Part I. of the Act, which contains the quota provisions, was resisted by the Secretary for Mines, and eventually withdrawn.

Viscount Ednam (C., Wednesbury), speaking as one who had been connected with the coal industry for many years and as a member of the Central Council, strongly supported the continuance of Part I. He was originally opposed to the Act, but, like many others, he had been converted to it.

There had only been about 12 applications for arbitration for increased quotas—a very remarkable fact. It could not be said that the quotas had been restricted hardly on individual districts or consumers as a whole. The total district outputs had not reached the total allocations in the last quarter. Therefore, there could not be any complaint of restrictions of output.

But for the existence of Part I. it would have been impossible for the industry to maintain the guaranteed minimum wage.

Eventually the Bill emerged from the committee without alteration, and there was no report stage.

Ultimately the third reading was carried by 291 to 52.

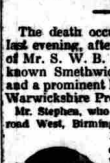
DEATH OF MR. S. W. B. STEPHEN

Well-Known Smethwick Business Man

EX-COUNCILLOR

The death occurred in London last evening, after a brief illness, of Mr. S. W. B. Stephen, a well-known Smethwick business man and a prominent Freemason of the Warwickshire Province.

Mr. Stephen, who resided at Hagley-road West, Birmingham, went up to London on business on Monday, and was then taken ill. He was removed to a nursing home, and passed away last evening.



S. W. B. STEPHEN.

Mr. Stephen was at one time an official at the Hamstead Colliery, Birmingham, and later became one of the biggest coal and coke factors in the Midlands, trading as S. W. B. Stephen and Co., Ltd., Rolfe-street, Smethwick.

He was a member of the Smethwick Town Council from 1920-35, and for some years dominated the public life of the borough.

He was also chairman of the local Conservative Association for some years and president of the Conservative Club.

Mr. Stephen was also a director of Holt Brewery Co., Ltd., Birmingham, and of several years had been actively identified with the cinema industry of the Midlands, being a director of Cinema Properties, Ltd.

In Masonic circles Mr. Stephen was a very popular figure. He was a Past Master of St. Alphege Lodge and Benevolence Lodge, and Past Provincial Grand Deacon of Warwickshire.

MORE WOMEN VOTERS

Proposals of Indian Franchise Committee

The central recommendations of the Indian Franchise Committee, whose report was issued yesterday, are:—

To raise the present electorate for the provincial legislatures from 7,180,000 or 2.8 per cent. to 35,000,000 or 14.1 per cent. of the population, and for the British Indian portion of the proposed federal legislature from 1,342,000 or 0.6 per cent. to 6,440,000 or 3.3 per cent. of the population.

To enfranchise 6,000,000 women as opposed to 315,000 at present, and to reserve between 5 and 5 per cent. of the seats in the enlarged provincial legislatures for women members.

To secure a large registration of the depressed classes on the electorate roll.

To give substantially increased representation to Labour and to continue the representation of the universities, commerce, and landlords in the legislatures in the existing numbers.

The committee reject adult franchise as being immediately impracticable.

PRINCE'S RURAL TOUR

Opens Derwent Hall as a Youth Hostel

The Prince of Wales yesterday motored 120 miles through some of the most beautiful scenery in Derbyshire, and visited remote hamlets far off the beaten track. He chatted with the village blacksmith, tailor, grocer, and cycle-maker, and during the day visited farms and an unemployed men's club.

The Prince opened Derwent Hall as a youth hostel.

The Prince of Wales's interest in the progress of a boy from the distressed areas he visited three years ago was revealed at the meeting of the Shaftesbury Homes and Arethusa training ship held in London yesterday.

An orphan had won a Queen's Prize, and Mr. Francis Clayton, chairman, said the Prince had himself written expressing his pleasure at the boy's success.

FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE

The Mortlake Flat Shooting Charge

Found not guilty of shooting with intent to murder, but guilty of shooting with intent to cause grievous bodily harm, Frank Cable, aged 49, labourer, of Ashleigh-road, Mortlake, was sentenced at the Old Bailey yesterday to five years' penal servitude.

According to the prosecution Cable bored a hole in the stairs and shot Mr. Ernest Arthur Gapp and his wife, Sarah Gapp, who occupied the flat above Cable's. Mr. Gapp was still suffering from paralysis, and it might be that he would never completely recover. Mrs. Gapp had four wounds.

Cable in evidence said he only intended to frighten Mr. and Mrs. Gapp because of the annoyance they had caused him by dragging tables and chairs across the floor.

Sir Otto Niemeyer has been appointed English director of the Bank for International Settlement in succession to Sir Charles Addis.

Birmingham Gazette photograph.

Maids managing the long train of the bride, Miss Christine Kitson, niece of Lord Airedale, as she left St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, yesterday, after her marriage to Mr. C. Roberts.

NEWS FROM ALL QUARTERS

MIDLAND OMEN FOR HAY HARVEST

A RECENT swarming of bees at Whitnash, near Leamington, is regarded locally as a good omen for the hay harvest, founded on an old proverb: "A swarm of bees in May is worth a load of hay."

Dudley Tragedy

The death occurred yesterday of Peter McNany, aged 48, a haulier, of 17a, Abberley-street, Dudley, who is stated to have been found some time earlier with his head in the gas-oven in his kitchen. He was married with a family.

Relief Fraud

For making a false statement when applying for relief, Thomas Stokes, of 55, Vaughton-street, was fined £3 in Birmingham yesterday. He pleaded that he committed the offence in ignorance.

Labour Party of Three

When a communication from the Micklefover Labour Party was mentioned at a meeting of Repton R.D.C., Burton-on-Trent, on Saturday, a member remarked: "This Labour Party represents just three persons."

Hospital Charges

The reasons for raising the charges for treatment of contributory inpatients at Dudley-road and Selly Oak Hospitals from 4s to 4s 10s. per week are outlined by the Public Health Committee in a report to Birmingham City Council.

Bartley Reservoir

With regard to Bartley Reservoir, a report to Birmingham City Council states that the boring of holes is continuing on the north side down to the stratum of underlying porous rock, in the hope of stopping or reducing, by cementation, the escape of water.

Rail Ride Sequel

For travelling on the G.W.R. between Tyseley and Solihull without paying his fare, Walter J Tarplee, aged 31, a gas-meter testor, of Hope-road, Solihull, was fined £1 in Birmingham yesterday.

Ullenhall Vicar

The Rev. F. Ridley Whitaker was last night inducted to the living of Ullenhall, near Henley-in-Arden, in succession to the Rev. W. F. Pelton, who was vicar from 1891 until his resignation this year.

Indian Freedom

Speaking at a meeting of the Birmingham Council for Indian Freedom at Digbeth Institute last night, Dr. Forrester-Paton said the spirit of freedom was still burning strongly in India in spite of the ordinances.

Gay Hollywood?

Is Hollywood really as gay as it is painted? You must read what Roland Young, the British actor and film star, who has figured prominently in the film-making colony, has to say about it in the Sunday Mercury.

Estimates Exceeded

In a warning against over-spendings on capital account, the Finance Committee of Birmingham City Council state that several committees have incurred expenditure in excess of estimates submitted to the Council.

Northfield Fatality

A verdict of "Accidental death" was recorded in Birmingham yesterday on Thomas Delbridge, aged 63, of 38, Leamington-road, Sparkbrook, Birmingham, who was knocked down by a motor-cycle in Cock-lane on 10 May.

Four Dogs in Sand Crush

Richard George Henry Whelan, of Balcombe-road, Horley, Surrey, who was seriously injured in a head-on collision between two motor-cycles near Horley late on Wednesday night, died in Horley Cottage Hospital last night, bringing the death roll to four.

"CAPTAIN TEDDY" SLIMMING

Birmingham Gazette photograph.

"Captain Teddy," the European bonsire bear at the Botanical Gardens, Brockham, exercised yesterday during his "daily dozen." Incidentally, there is an optical illusion about the photograph, for "Teddy" is five yards from the bars of the cage.

OATH BILL

We Cannot Give Way —Mr. de Valera

The Irish Free State Senate last night passed the second reading of the Oath Bill by 31 votes to eight.

Mr. de Valera, replying to the debate, said: "If we go to Ottawa and meet British representatives in Council with other States and this question is discussed, I believe that every one of those States will realise that we are fighting a common fight in standing up for the principles involved in this matter. We cannot give way on this matter."

The Committee stage of the Bill will begin on Wednesday next. The Bill, if amended by the Senate, goes back to the Dail, and a position of deadlock will probably arise.

Therefore, there is reason to speculate upon an election in the autumn, failing agreement between the two Houses.

MR. A. GLYN-WATKINS

Well-Known Gloucester Man Dead

The death occurred suddenly at his home at Cheltenham yesterday of Mr. A. Glyn-Watkins, managing director of the Gloucester Railway Wagon and Carriage Co., Ltd.

During the war Mr. Glyn-Watkins (who was an Australian) was manager of the National Shell-filling Factory at Quedgeley, near Gloucester.

Afterwards he joined the Gloucester Wagon Co. as general manager, and he was appointed a managing director about a year ago when the board was reorganised.

He leaves a widow and two daughters.

SUN BATHING

Facilities at Most British Resorts

At the annual conference of the Association of Health and Pleasure Resorts, at Folkestone, yesterday, it was reported that facilities for sun bathing were now being provided in many seaside towns, and that only a very few had refused permission.

The secretary of the Association, Mr. R. E. Goldspink, of Southend, referring to a questionnaire which had been sent out to all towns, members of the Association, in regard to mackintosh bathing and sun bathing, said a summary of the replies showed that mackintosh bathing was being regarded as an amenity of a health resort, and should be permitted, subject to proper regulations controlling it.

Alderman G. Spurgeon, of Folkestone, said there was more liberty on the Continent, and we were suffering in this country from too much grandmotherly Government.

It was decided again to approach the B.B.C. and ask the corporation to arrange a series of six or more sectional talks on British health resorts.

THE WEATHER

TO-DAY'S FORECAST

West Midlands.—Light variable or easterly winds; fair, but perhaps local thunderstorms; rather warm.

North and East Midlands and N.E. England.—Light or moderate north-easterly wind; cloudy, bright intervals, perhaps local thunder, mist or fog on coasts; moderate or rather high temperature inland, rather cool on coast.

General Inference.—Pressure continues high to the north of the British Isles. A depression centred west-south-west of Ireland will move south-east, and disturbances are likely to move south or south-east from Scandinavia. Mainly fair weather will continue in most districts, but further fog and low cloud are probable on the East coast, and there is a chance of local thunderstorms occurring over England.

Further Outlook.—None issued.

YESTERDAY'S RECORDS

MIDLAND INSTITUTE OBSERVATORY

Thursday.

Height of the barometer at 9 o'clock p.m. corrected for temperature 29.897 inches; corrected to sea level 29.975 inches.

At 6 p.m. the barometer was steady. Temperatures at 9 p.m., 61 degrees Fahr. Maximum for 24 hrs. ended 9 p.m., 65 degrees. Minimum temperature, 49 degrees.

Grass minimum, 39 degrees.

Solar radiation maximum, 111 degrees.

Direction of the wind at 9 p.m., E.N.E.

Average direction, E.N.E.

Bright sunshine, 9 hours 30 minutes.

With thanks to Trinity Mirror. Digitised by Findmypast Newspaper Archive Limited. All rights reserved.